The Working Group of the Association of Russian Higher Education Institutions “Global Universities” and the Conference of Rectors of Italian Universities (CRUI) is proud to announce open Call for papers for the I International research conference in Humanities “Cultural Transfer: History, Language, Society” held under the aegis of the Russian-Italian Association.

The conference will be held on May 23-25, 2018 in Tomsk State University, Tomsk, Russia.

The aim of the conference is to create an effective forum for collaboration and promote effective exchange of ideas for Russian, Italian and other scholars on contemporary questions and challenges in philology, translation, history, sociology and other Humanities. We invite scholars, as well as encourage young researchers and PhD students to participate.

The themes of the conference:

- comparative studies of literature, imagology, literary translation;
- comparative aspects of European languages; linguistic questions of cultural transfer, parallel corpora and dictionaries as a tool for preserving cultural heritage; cultural consequences of globalization and issues of language policy, reception and impact of linguistic theories;
- historical and political comparative studies; international (first and foremost, Russian-Italian) historical and cultural links;

The working languages of the conference are Russian and English. Some sessions might be conducted in Italian (subject to prior approval by the organizing committee).

Selected papers in philology will be published in a special issue of the scholarly journal Tomsk State University Journal. Philology” (included into WoS database). The rest of the articles on literature and linguistics will be published in a special issue of Tomsk State University journal “Imagology and Comparative Studies” (included into RISC, VAK, in the process of including in WoS). Articles on historical and social studies will be published in the scholarly journal “Izvestiya UrFU”, series “Social Sciences” (Scopus).

Submission procedure:

Proposals for participation in the Conference should be submitted through online system at <http://conference.tsu.ru/cultransfer> by January 20, 2018 (registration to the website required).

Apart from personal data, an application should include an abstract of the paper (up to 150 words), the author's short bio including 2-3 main publications (up to 150 words).

We will consider individual proposals as well as proposals of panels (4-6 papers and the suggested panel moderator). In case of session proposal, the proposed moderator submits the description of the session and provides a personal bio and CV.

Notification of acceptance for the conference programme will be issued by February 20, 2018.

The preliminary program will be available on the Conference website by March 1, 2018.
